I recent was talking to a friend who built a place in another ski town, the permit to build there included a fee that went to low income housing or workforce housing, which made the permit to build very expensive but the fee that went toward low income or workforce housing in the place she was building made sense to her, do we have a program like that or a tax on building or buying here if the intention is not to be a first home or be a short term rental? Is there any way to have an incentive program for people who rent long term here, ie mammoth pass, nights at hotels, gift cards to local shops for goods or nights at restaurants?
